

Patrick Melvin

Litigation Graphics & IT Manager

With the organizational skill set to handle large amounts of data, and the graphical expertise to simply and effectively communicate complex information, Patrick is able to adapt any information into clear, understandable visual exhibits.

Since 2003 Patrick has been with PBI developing a distinctive graphic style that visually explains investigation findings and concepts with clean simple imagery. He has worked on hundreds of projects needing multiple graphics, including 3D renderings, video, and presentations.

He has been responsible for creating demonstrative exhibits for hundreds of cases, utilizing a variety of media to convey important and complex aspects of construction. Patrick's exhibits have been used successfully for expert meetings, mediations, arbitrations and trials, including federal trials and numerous multi-million dollar cases.

When Patrick is not creating graphics, he assists in project management. From his experience at Pinnell Busch, he has learned how to do takeoffs, estimating, scheduling, document review, and site documentation. His experience in construction processes allows for great communication with clients, and helps create the clarity of our exhibits.

Additionally Patrick is our IT manager who keeps all the equipment and software up and running smoothly.
